Fifty of 56 consecutive patients with thyroid nodules, detected by screening, were sent to us for fine needle aspiration biopsy, and only 11 of those with nodules were referred to a radiologist. Of the eight patients found to have carcinoma of the thyroid or thyroid colloid on aspiration biopsy, five had thyrotropin values less than 30. Thyrotropin is a reliable predictor of carcinoma in thyroid nodules found by screening, but the test is seldom performed.Functional and morphological characteristics of cell-free dispersed sarcoplasmic reticulum of the rabbit ventricular myocardium. The morphological and functional characteristics of the cell-free dispersed sarcoplasmic reticulum (SR) of the rabbit papillary muscle (PM) were studied by using a "disperser" device and electron microscopy and electron transmission microscope (ETM). Electrical stimulation of the PM evoked Ca^{2+} -dependent slow and slow plus fast twitch tension transients. The "disperser" treatment produced a good dispersion of the SR. We found that the dispersion in Ca^{2+} -tension relations was the same for the SR before and after the dispersion. The slow twitch transients of the PM with dispersed SR were unchanged in amplitude or time course compared with the SR before dispersion. The slow twitch tension transient was significantly different than that obtained with the SR of the PM not treated with the disperser. We could see that the SR of the PM was not damaged by the treatment. In the disperded SR, Ca^{2+} -ATPase activity was not reduced, and there was no effect of Ba^{2+} , ryanodine, or caffeine. Ultrastructurally, we showed that the SR had small vesicles and a regular pattern of organelles. It is concluded that this method of treatment does not alter the physiological characteristics or the ultrastructural appearance of the cell-free dispersed SR.Boris Johnson is "open" to a transitional deal that would prevent a no deal Brexit if the
