LilyDesktop is a complex application that helps you to create and manage essential notes, meetings and life events directly on your desktop for easy access, as well as to check the weather at the same time. Neatly structured interface It provides a clean and modern menu, divided into two main panels, one showing the current and following months, and the other one displaying a more detailed layout where you can add events. The calendar and scheduling features help you keep all of your important appointments, birthdays, and everything else in your busy life organized and readily accessible. The updated weather forecasts right on your desktop keep up to date with the current weather conditions Add daily meetings and life events The main panel offers you the ability to set a note at a particular time of the day, by selecting the date from the built-in menus. You can create life events like birthdays, weddings, or important meetings you don't want to miss. The daily organizer can be set to display tasks at a time interval between minutes. When making a new entry you have to input a subject name, the place you are living in, category of colors, if it's a private or an office-related event, starting and ending time, reminder, and a short description. Furthermore, the calendar page can be customized with different options before printing it. For example, you can select the time period, black and white mode, a header and a footer, the page size (e.g. A3, A4, letter), as well as the orientation and margins. The application also includes a powerful time management system and a detailed calendar to help you to plan your day and your life. Another useful feature is the weather forecast, which tells you the current conditions. The core feature of LilyDesktop is its capability to show the current weather as well as hourly, daily, weekly, monthly and year round. LilyDesktop is a powerful and a great application that will help you to add a detailed time-line to track your tasks. It includes a powerful events manager, a personal organizer, a time planner, a detailed agenda and a time tracker. Ease of use and ease of navigation Creating notes and adding events When you first launch the program you will be asked to create a new note. You can either input a title and short description of the event or choose to add a picture. After you set the name you'll see a small calendar in the bottom right corner. You can set the event time from a reminder to everyday, the next day, or next week. You can also choose to add an event with the same title and place as the note you just created. You can also add a follow up and choose to display the event on a daily, weekly, monthly, or year timeline. After you select the event type you can add an ending time for example at the next day or a scheduled time. Scheduling a meeting To set a meeting you first have to choose the type of event you want to add. In the subsequent screen you can
