It uses _layers_ to paint in different types of imagery. You edit and combine layers to compose your images. In addition to layers, Photoshop has several other tools for creating images. For a review, see Chapter 5. ## The Layers Panel In a typical Photoshop work space, you can have many different layers and groups of layers active at any time. In the Layers panel, you can see the Layers thumbnail layer group (shown in Figure 1-1), as well as any groups or layers you've created. The Layers panel has these basic features: * Layer 1: The active layer, which is visible in the Layers thumbnail. * Layer 2: The last active layer in the work area. If you have more than two layers currently open, the last layer is used as the current layer. * Layer 3: The top layer, which is often the Background Layer, which works as a guide for adjustments. * Layer 4: The layer thumbnails. * Layer 5: Tabs labeled with the names of each individual layer. Figure 1-1: The Layers panel has many layer groups and is a great place to keep track of your work.

Q: Reversing IF statement in PHP I have a simple PHP script where I am trying to output a link in a table depending on a variable stored in an array, which the PHP script is looping over. `if (($row['answer'] == "red") && ($row['question'] == "What is your favourite colour?")) { echo "".$row['answer'].""; } I am trying to reverse this so it would output the image instead, but I cannot get it to work.
