comparative in vitro study of the growth-suppressive effect of an extract of the lycopodium plant (Lyc. officinale) on lymphocytic leukemia L 1210 and transplantable solid malignant tumour L 5178 was made. As to the latter, inhibition of tumour growth was observed even at high dosage of the extract. Chemotherapy of mice transplanted with solid tumour L 5178 with an extract of the plant is attended by more complete regression of the tumour, more prolonged survival of the mice, but their resistance to a cytostatic drugs is less pronounced than in untreated animals. It is suggested that the extract of lycopodium can be used in hypertherapy of various cancer forms.

links.Preoperative chemoradiotherapy and laparoscopic surgery with staging for locally advanced gastric carcinoma: early results. We analyzed the clinical efficacy and safety of preoperative chemoradiotherapy (CRT) with laparoscopic surgery (LS) for patients with locally advanced gastric cancer (LAGC). We performed a prospective study of 87 patients with LAGC who underwent preoperative CRT with LS between April 2003 and October 2007. All patients underwent laparoscopic surgery with lymph node dissection. The clinical response to preoperative CRT was determined, and the data were analyzed according to the Japanese Classification of Esophagogastric Carcinoma system. The 5-year survival rate was 51.6%. Complete response (CR) was achieved in 25 patients (28.7%), partial response (PR) in 40 patients (46.0%), and no response (NR) in 22 patients (25.3%). The overall local control rate was 91.3%. The 5-year survival rate was significantly higher in patients with CR (66.7% vs. 39.1%), PR (57.3% vs. 23.0%), and NR (32.3% vs. 10.7%). The overall complication rate was 29.4%, with no significant difference between the surgery-alone group and the CRT group (24.1% vs. 34.5%; $p = 0.16$), which was mainly restricted to the CRT group. No perioperative death was observed. Preoperative CRT is expected to be a safe and effective treatment modality for patients with LAGC. The combination of preoperative CRT with LS might be a new standard treatment for LAGC. Ghrelin is a GH-releasing peptide originally identified in rat stomach. After its discovery, ghrelin has been confirmed to exist in stomach, hypothalamus and pancreas, and to play an important role in the regulation of feeding behavior and energy metabolism (Saleh et al. (1997), Nature, 386:179-182). It is well known that ghrelin reduces food intake. For example, ghrelin suppresses feeding behavior and alters the pattern of food intake in a dose-dependent manner (Harada et al. (1999), Nature, 402:659-663). Ghrelin reduces
